

28 September 2009

Horwath conducts essential briefing for property and construction clients

Horwath Kuala Lumpur conducted a one-day intensive briefing for its property development and construction clients in early September. The briefing was to provide industry players with a critical understanding of the latest Public Rulings guidelines issued by IRB in May this year, and guidance on how to comply with drastic changes in the tax requirements. At the same time, attendees were also briefed on the accounting standards affecting their industries.

According to Fennie Lim, Tax Principal, "This is a great opportunity for us to brief and guide our property development and construction clients as September happens to be the last chance for them to submit revisions for their tax estimates." The event which was held at a five star boutique hotel in the city attracted over 60 attendees.

Speakers: Tham Hon Sin (Senior Manager, Technical & Training), Fennie Lim (Tax Principal) and Poon Yew Hoe (Tax Partner)

Participants listening intently during the seminar

Participants also took the time to network during the break

Expounding on the revised IRB public rulings